House Bill 4158 would amend the Michigan Vehicle Code to add drivers' license points and increase civil fines for traffic violations involving cellular telephones, and to require a report on vehicle code violations involving cellular telephones.

The fiscal impact to Traffic Citation Revenue would be an increase, but the amount is indeterminate.

The Department of State estimates a one-time cost of $101,600 to implement the requirements of this bill. Additional costs would cover software programming, CPU testing time and new forms. The ongoing administrative costs may be negligible.
