Pastor Jim Kushner, Pastor of Trenton Assembly of God in Trenton, offered the following invocation:

“Lord I thank You for the men and women, that gather in this hall, committed to shouldering the responsibility of service to their communities and our state. Lord I recognize that each one comes with unique gifts, perspectives and concerns - yet, I have confidence that each has an unyielding passion to do well by our beloved state, its communities, families and individuals.

Lord, as they serve together, may Your Spirit give each one wisdom, courage, imagination, humility and clarity of mind as they face the challenges of the day.

Lord, give them the wisdom to deal responsibly with the precious resources of our state - natural, financial, and human - so that they may be both applied well to the challenges at hand and preserved for our posterity.

Lord, give them clear minds to accurately identify those elements of our state and communities that are most valuable and vulnerable, that they may be protected - conserved with great conviction.

Lord, inspire their imagination with Your limitless creativity that those challenges which require new, fresh, progressive approaches can be met with great flexibility and effectiveness.

Lord, grant each one here the clarity of mind and humility of heart to both recognize and embrace good and effective solutions - no matter whom they may come from.

Lord, I recognize that the personal cost of public service is often quite high. These costs are often borne out in the personal lives of those who have committed to serve. Lord I ask that You closely guard that which is most precious to those represented here - their relationships: spouses, children, other family and close friends who often lose time and connection with those committed to serve our common interests. Extend Your grace to these relationships and an ability to deftly balance competing priorities.

Lord, guard and uphold each member of this body as they deal with the challenges of compromise and the temptations of influence and power. We recognize that in a state as large and diverse as ours, political ideologies must be strained in order to arrive at solutions that can be implemented effectively. Yet, in the face of this reality, may each member here have the strength and courage of his or her convictions to strongly resist those challenges which would impugn their foundational character and impede their ability to lead and serve effectively.

Lord, again, I thank You for the service and sacrifice of the men and women of this body and pray for Your continued blessing, guidance, and protection upon each one. In Your good and mighty name, Lord Jesus, I pray. Amen.”

Rep. Stamas moved that Rep. MacMaster be excused from today’s session.
The motion prevailed.

Rep. Rutledge moved that Rep. Nathan be excused from today’s session.
The motion prevailed.

Motions and Resolutions

Reps. Darany, Cavanagh, Hovey-Wright and Singh offered the following resolution:

House Resolution No. 238.

A resolution to encourage the Food and Drug Administration to examine the potential health risks associated with spray tanning products and draft guidelines and make recommendations on the safe use of these products.

Whereas, Many Americans, particularly young adults, use sunless tanning products to achieve a tanned look without exposure to the sun’s damaging rays. These products are thought to be healthy alternatives to exposing the skin to ultraviolet radiation, which is a major risk factor for skin cancer; and

Whereas, Sunless tanning products may not be as safe as many people think. Some studies indicate a possibility that the active ingredient in most sunless tanning products, dihydroxyacetone, or DHA, may cause genetic alterations which could lead to cancer. While sunless tanning products have been approved for external use, their application via sprays is cause for concern because the product can be accidentally ingested or inhaled. A large pharmacy chain in the United Kingdom has removed spray tanning products from its shelves amid safety concerns. American consumers have also reported experiencing adverse events associated with spray tanning; and

Whereas, The Food and Drug should look more closely at sunless spray tanning products using its authority under the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act. American consumers should be informed about the potential risks of spray tanning so they can make an educated decision about whether or not to use these products; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives, That we encourage the Food and Drug Administration to examine the potential health risks associated with spray tanning products and draft guidelines and make recommendations on the safe use of these products; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the Food and Drug Administration Commissioner and the members of the Michigan congressional delegation.

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Regulatory Reform.

Reps. Darany, Cavanagh, Hovey-Wright and Singh offered the following concurrent resolution:

House Concurrent Resolution No. 12.

A concurrent resolution to encourage the Food and Drug Administration to examine the potential health risks associated with spray tanning products and draft guidelines and make recommendations on the safe use of these products.
