Senate Bill 1021 (Substitute S-1 as reported by the Committee of the Whole)
Sponsor: Senator Jim Stamas
Committee: Judiciary

CONTENT

The bill would amend the Child Protection Law (CPL) to allow the disclosure of a confidential record to a children's advocacy center in the course of providing services to a victim of child abuse or child neglect or to the child's family.

The CPL requires certain professionals to report to the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) if they have reasonable cause to suspect child abuse or neglect, and imposes various investigative, reporting, record-keeping, and other responsibilities on the Department. These include a requirement that the DHHS maintain a statewide, electronic central registry to carry out the statute. Except as otherwise provided, a written report, document, or photograph filed with the Department under the Law is a confidential record available only to specified individuals and entities. The bill would include among those entities a children's advocacy center in the course of providing services to a child alleged to have been the victim of child abuse or child neglect or to that child's family.

The bill would define "children's advocacy center" as an entity accredited as a child advocacy center by the National Children's Alliance or its successor agency or an entity granted associate or developing membership status by the National Children's Alliance or its successor agency.
