Senator Jonathan Lindsey of the 17th District offered the following invocation:

Heavenly Father, we come before You on this National Day of Prayer, joining our prayer with millions of others. We come before You in recognition of Your majesty and glory, and the majesty and glory of Your creation. We come before You with hearts full of gratitude for the many blessings in our lives.

And most of all, we come before You with hearts of contrition. We recognize that government and its agents have done great evil, and we beg Your forgiveness. We have stolen from Your children; we have multiplied suffering and poverty; we have allowed deception to dominate our discourse and corruption to direct policy. We have called evil good, and good evil, and demanded the people we serve do the same. We are grateful that Your grace and mercy are unending. We ask for that mercy and that You may guide our actions towards repentance. In the name of Your Son, Jesus. Amen.

The President, Lieutenant Governor Gilchrist, led the members of the Senate in recital of the Pledge of Allegiance.

Introduction and Referral of Bills

Senators Daley, Klinefelt, Shink and Moss asked and were granted unanimous consent to make statements and moved that the statements be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Daley's statement is as follows:

I rise today with Senator Klinefelt to make an introduction. Today we have the 2022 Queen's Court from Michigan Sugar here. I have the 2022 Sugar Queen herself—Brianna Kubik—and one of the Sugar Queen's Court is Brooke Pagel. Brooke is a 2021 graduate of Birch Run High School and a former NCAA Division II national champion in soccer. Currently she attends Delta College where she plays volleyball. Brianna, the Queen, is a 2021 Akron-Fairgrove High School graduate. She now is enrolled in the Delta College nursing program and in the future would like to run and own her own medical practice in a rural area.

Senator Klinefelt's statement is as follows:

On the Sugar Queen Court from my district is Adriana Ivezaj. Adriana is from Macomb Township and graduated from Henry Ford High School where she was involved in HOSA. She's pursuing a degree in communications at Oakland University with minors in DEP studies and journalism. She's involved in the American Marketing Association, Creative Writing Club, Women in Business, and Entrepreneurs in Action. Please join us in welcoming our court.

Senator Shink's statement is as follows:

Mr. President, I'd like to recognize our spectacular intern—Joslyn Miller—whose last day is today. She has done great work in my office over the past few months. Joslyn joined my office in January of this year and has done an amazing job managing constituent responses, increasing social media outreach, and conducting policy research. She has shown a passion for migrant and women's health issues, having previously worked with the Ingham County Prosecutor's Office as a domestic violence advocate, and with MSU's Study Abroad program as a refugee services intern.

Joslyn graduates this month from Michigan State University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in interdisciplinary studies and social science. While at MSU, she participated in the Michigan Government Semester Program and was vice president of the Organizational Involvement Women's Council. She will be leaving us to start her career in Washington, D.C., as a project assistant.

I'd like to say thank you again to Joslyn. We all in our office wish you nothing but the best of luck in all future endeavors.

Senator Moss' statement is as follows:

It is that time of year when we bid farewell to those who have spent a semester or more in our office helping them to run. I would like to introduce and honor my intern, Adam Budiansky, who actually joined us last October and was eager to make the transition with us to this new term and spent an extra semester in our office. Adam recently concluded his junior year at MSU where he is majoring in international relations at James Madison College with minors in business and Jewish studies. He's also the treasurer of his fraternity, Sigma Alpha Mu.

Adam was one of the many students who endured the night of terror at MSU and made gun safety a priority of his and I'm really proud of his work ushering those bills to be signed into law. He has also worked tirelessly in our office answering constituent calls and e-mails. He has produced exemplary work in our office with well-written tributes, legislative research, and the work he's done really is far beyond his years. It has been a pleasure having him in our office for two semesters.

He is going back to his hometown in New York—he has assured me he is not seeking an internship with his Congressman, George Santos—but we do want to honor him on the floor today with this plaque and seal from the state of Michigan. Thank you, Adam, for all your work to our constituents.

Senator Nesbitt entered the Senate Chamber.

Senators Irwin, Bayer, Geiss, McMorrow, Santana, Chang, Cavanagh and Polehanki introduced Senate Bill No. 327, entitled

The bill was read a first and second time by title and referred to the Committee on Regulatory Affairs.

The House of Representatives has passed the bill and ordered that it be given immediate effect.

The bill was read a first and second time by title and referred to the Committee on Finance, Insurance, and Consumer Protection.

House Bill No. 4238, entitled

The House of Representatives has passed the bill and ordered that it be given immediate effect.

The bill was read a first and second time by title and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Senator Chang asked and was granted unanimous consent to make a statement and moved that the statement be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Chang's statement is as follows:

Today I would like to recognize Madison. Madison is an MSW student at Michigan State University studying organization and community leadership. She has been with our office for Team Chang for over a year and she's been a very kind, compassionate, calm, and wonderful human being. She has been amazing assisting us with constituent calls and issues, always talking to them with patience and compassion, and truly understands what it means to serve others. Madison is a great team player, always being one of those who is first to help when the situation calls for it, whether addressing a constituent issue or helping make sure the office is prepared.

I wish her the best of luck on her next internship and look forward to all the amazing things she will continue to do to advocate for our communities. Thank you, Madison.

By unanimous consent the Senate returned to the order of Resolutions

Senator Singh moved that rule 3.204 be suspended to permit immediate consideration of the following resolutions:

Senate Resolution No. 46

Senate Resolution No. 47

The motion prevailed, a majority of the members serving voting therefor.

Senators Bayer, Chang, McCann, Polehanki, Victory, Johnson, Wojno, Camilleri, Moss, Hertel, Singh, McMorro, Irwin, Cavanagh, Cherry, Brinks and Geiss offered the following resolution:

Senate Resolution No. 46.

A resolution to recognize May 2023 as Stroke Awareness Month.

Whereas, May is Stroke Awareness Month, a time to remember the millions of people and their loved ones who have been affected by one of the nation's leading causes of death and long-term disability; and

Whereas, It is also a time to recognize the modern advancements and medical innovations that are making it more possible for patients to survive and regain independence following a stroke; and

Whereas, According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, nearly 800,000 people in the United States experience a stroke each year; and

Whereas, Every 40 seconds someone in the United States has a stroke, and tragically, every three and a half minutes someone dies from a stroke; and

Whereas, A stroke impacts not only the patient, but their family as they adjust to the recovery of their loved one and the side effects and long-lasting symptoms of surviving a stroke; and

Whereas, There are two different types of strokes: an ischemic stroke and a hemorrhagic stroke; and

Whereas, The most common type of stroke is an ischemic stroke. A severe ischemic stroke, such as Emergent Large Vessel Occlusion (ELVO), occurs when a blood clot forms in one of the major arteries of the brain, restricting the flow of blood and oxygen and killing up to two million brain cells per minute; and

Whereas, A hemorrhagic stroke happens when an artery in the brain is ruptured and the leaked blood puts pressure on brain cells and damages them; and

Whereas, One of the most promising advancements in treatment for strokes today is mechanical thrombectomy. Also known as endovascular therapy, it is a minimally invasive procedure through which the blood clot responsible for the most severe form of stroke is located and removed, restoring blood flow to the brain. It is truly a revolutionary procedure performed by highly trained neurointerventional care teams at Level 1 stroke centers located throughout our state; and

Whereas, Studies have shown that for every five minutes saved when a critical stroke patient obtains the lifesaving care they need, they will experience an additional month of life without disability; and now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That the members of this legislative body recognize May 2023 as Stroke Awareness Month.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution,

The resolution was adopted.

Senator Santana was named co-sponsor of the resolution.

Senator Bayer asked and was granted unanimous consent to make a statement and moved that the statement be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Bayer's statement is as follows:

As many of you know, my husband John experienced a massive stroke four years ago. Our lives were forever changed when I walked into the living room that day and saw him lying on the floor, he couldn't speak, he couldn't respond, there was something wrong with his eyes. Fortunately we live very close to a Level 1 stroke trauma center where getting from the point of me calling 9-1-1 to being in the imaging room at the hospital was under 15 minutes. This is a critical step in treating stroke: if you see a stroke happening, you have to act fast and get to the hospital as quickly as you can, call 9-1-1.

When we got there, the incredible skill and caring of the first responders of the hospital staff in the ER and then ten days in intensive care, the amazing hard-working medical professionals really did save his life. We need to make sure we take care of those people. Now, after five weeks in the hospital, John has had four years of therapy and medical care that's helped him recover many of the things that were lost that day. You can see him here today. He is physically doing very well, he was able to help us in our move last year. His occupational therapy has made it possible for him to put together his lunch—he can put together a PB&J and put stuff in the microwave, and get his own lunch.

But like many other stroke survivors, John has very severe aphasia which makes it almost impossible for him to bring up words to be able to say words. Sometimes stroke survivors will be talking, thinking they're saying the right words, but no one else can understand what they're saying. Communication is a huge problem. Stroke often also causes apraxia which makes speech even more difficult. John's muscles are not completely under his control, so it's hard for him to form the right movements to be able to make the correct sounds for speech. Stroke survivors can often benefit from speech therapy and John wants to make sure we thank his speech pathologist at Beaumont and now his music speech therapist who's helping him belt out some really good Bob Seger tunes. If you know occupational therapists or speech therapists, tell them thank you for all the work they do. They make life good again for stroke survivors.

There are other powerful tools that help. John's favorite thing to do is go to his stroke support groups. He sees his friend Andy—one of his best pals—at Beaumont every week and a lot of friends at the Royal Oak Senior Center stroke support group, and the Cane and Able stroke and aphasia support groups in Troy. I want to give a huge thank you to the volunteers in those groups and there are volunteers like that in groups all over the state. Thank them for the amazing work they do. They don't get paid and they really make a big difference.

Lastly, as this is for Stroke Awareness Month, if you think someone might be having a stroke you need to act FAST—F-A-S-T—FAST. F—look at their face, ask them to smile. Can they smile? Is one side drooping? A—arms, ask them to lift their arms. Can they lift their arms? Is one of them drooping? S—speech, ask them to repeat a simple phrase. Can they do that? Is it slurred or something wrong with their speech? T—time, don't waste time. Call 9-1-1, act FAST.

Thank you for this opportunity to support May as National Stroke Awareness Month and make Michigan Stroke Awareness Month effective by voting for this resolution.

Senators Shink, Cherry, Anthony, Santana, Klinefelt, Irwin, Chang, Hertel, McDonald Rivet, Outman and McBroom offered the following resolution:

Senate Resolution No. 47.

A resolution to recognize May 1-7, 2023, as Correctional Officers Week.

Whereas, The safety and well-being of every Michigander is of the utmost importance, and the correctional officers who work in our correctional facilities dedicate themselves to this critical task each and every day; and

Whereas, In an environment that may become intimidating, aggressive, or even hostile, correctional officers are skilled professionals that are trained to maintain composure while preserving safety and property, and restraining persons that may be dangerous to themselves or others; and

Whereas, These honorable men and women are hard-working and committed public servants, and without their expertise and service, Michigan's correctional facilities would be unable to operate as successfully and efficiently as they do today; and

Whereas, During this week, we join with the Michigan Department of Corrections and the Michigan Corrections Organization to recognize every correctional officer that serves in Michigan. We thank them for the essential role they play in helping to protect the people of Michigan; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That the members of this legislative body recognize May 1-7, 2023, as Correctional Officers Week.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution,

The resolution was adopted.

Senator Geiss was named co-sponsor of the resolution.

Senator Shink asked and was granted unanimous consent to make a statement and moved that the statement be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Shink's statement is as follows:

I rise today to speak to this bipartisan resolution to recognize May 1–7, 2023, as Correctional Officers Week in Michigan. From Jackson in my district and the neighboring communities of Ypsilanti and Whitmore Lake to Coldwater and Adrian in the south and the U.P. in the north, corrections officers make significant contributions to our communities and local economies across the state. The expertise and service of these hard-working and committed public servants enable Michigan's correctional facilities to operate as successfully and efficiently as they do today. These men and women help protect our communities while also maintaining a safe and constructive environment for justice-involved residents. During this week, we join with the Michigan Department of Corrections and the Michigan Corrections Organization to recognize every correctional officer that serves in Michigan. We see you and we thank you. We thank you for the essential role they play in helping protect the people of Michigan, and I hope the support and gratitude for our corrections officers' service goes beyond the substance of this resolution or the context of this week and continues in all of our budget and policy solutions. I appreciate my colleagues from both sides of the aisle for co-sponsoring this resolution and I hope all members of this body will join me in supporting this important recognition today.

Senator Anthony asked and was granted unanimous consent to make a statement and moved that the statement be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Anthony's statement is as follows:

As one of mid-Michigan's state Senators, I inherited a lot from former Senator Curtis Hertel. One of the amazing things I inherited is one of his former interns—Marko. He is a son of Macomb and will be transitioning from our office back to what is now Senator Klinefelt's district, but I have to tell you a little bit about this amazing intern and really a public servant at heart.

Marko is a graduate of Michigan State University's James Madison College, so we know what that means. He is top-notch. He can read and write and analyze and he has been an integral part of our office and our ability to serve the constituents of mid-Michigan, not only answering phones and e-mails and translating really what has been happening in our community and how to make sure people's voices are heard here in the halls of power. He has led with empathy, with respect, and has brought so much value and joy to our office.

I would be remiss if we didn't acknowledge his service to this institution, again, as he transitions back to Macomb County. He has been outstanding and I hope my colleagues can join me in congratulating him and thanking him for his service to the institution.

By unanimous consent the Senate returned to the order of

General Orders

Senator Singh moved that the Senate resolve itself into the Committee of the Whole for consideration of the General Orders calendar.

The Senate agreed to the title of the bill.

Senator Chang asked and was granted unanimous consent to make a statement and moved that the statement be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Chang’s statement is as follows:

These bipartisan bills before us today would make a difference in preventing future sexual assault from happening. They are policy solutions that we must take to prevent future misconduct, protect survivors, and improve accountability. I want to thank my colleagues and staff on both sides of the aisle who have worked on this bill package—many of them for several years. Thank you for your commitment addressing sexual assault and for your partnership.

Sexual assault is unfortunately something that happens far too frequently, not just major scandals in youth and college sports but also on college campuses, in our communities, and inside the home. Sexual assault victims and survivors are all ages and genders. One in nine girls under the age of 18 experience sexual abuse or assault at the hands of an adult. And one in six American women has been the victim of an attempted or completed rape in her lifetime. The impact of sexual assault is compounded. It is not only the physical incident, but also the psychological, emotional, and physical effects that can linger afterward.

Four years ago, I started a fellowship for high school girls of color. In 2016 and 2017 the young women chose to work on sexual assault and interpersonal violence for their community action project because many of them have either experienced sexual assault themselves or have a close family member or friend who is a survivor. While I knew that sexual assault was prevalent, the fact that these young people all recognized that this was something that needed change was an important wake-up call to me as their friend and as a lawmaker that I need to be doing as much as I can to address this issue. The fellows decided that they wanted to conduct a survey of their peers about this issue. A large majority of their fellow students said that they knew someone who was a victim of sexual assault, and the vast majority of them had said they had never received any education in school about sexual assault. They put together an incredible presentation that they gave at several high schools to educate their peers, and I worked closely with them on this bill.

My bill will take important steps to ensure students receive the educational materials about sexual assault and harassment, and inform young people about available resources in their community. This is critical for many reasons. One, so that young people who experience sexual assault are able to recognize what happens to them and become aware of who they can go to for help. In addition, we know that when someone discloses what happened to them to someone, how that person responds can make all the difference in whether that victim or survivor will go on to seek help or choose to report it to law enforcement.

We need to make sure that young people learn about sexual misconduct so that if their friend discloses to them, they will have some understanding and some information they can provide about resources. This bill would require the Department of Education to work with the Domestic and Sexual Violence Prevention and Treatment Board, as well as the Coalition to End Domestic and Sexual Violence, to develop age-appropriate informational material regarding sexual assault and sexual harassment. These materials would be made available to all schools to disseminate to students in grades 6 through 12, and be included in the school handbook or similar publication, or the school’s webpage.

This bill also encourages schools to provide educators and school employees with training every five years about how to respond to students who have experienced sexual assault or harassment. This is important because we recognize that we need to ensure that school employees are responding in an appropriate educated manner and know how they can help a victim or survivor after their experience.

By taking action on this and other bills today, we are taking another step forward in preventing sexual assault, protecting survivors, and improving accountability. I ask for your support.

Statements

Senators Anthony and Nesbitt asked and were granted unanimous consent to make statements and moved that the statements be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Anthony's statement is as follows:

As many of you know, this is a very special day for me. Some would say it's a religious holiday, but I would just like to take a moment to wish my colleagues—as well as the state of Michigan—a wonderful May the 4th, also known as Star Wars Day. Thank you for the opportunity.

Senator Nesbitt's statement is as follows:

I rise today to urge my colleagues on the other side of the aisle to reconsider their current trajectory regarding the one-sided crafting of our state budget. At the beginning of this legislative term, we found ourselves in an unprecedented financial situation—staring at an overall surplus of $9 billion. Nine billion dollars collected by government from working families, small businesses, and seniors across our state that has gone unspent. Many saw this as a great opportunity to invest in our roads, bridges, and other infrastructure, pay down long-term debt, make additional contributions to the state's rainy-day fund, and provide much needed tax relief to all struggling working families, all workers in Michigan, all small business owners, as this Biden economy continues to pummel them with record high inflation and high energy prices.

Unfortunately, the Governor took a different route. Instead, her proposed budget went from a $9 billion surplus in January to what we are facing—a nearly billion dollar deficit under what she introduced back in February. I'm not entirely sure how that is possible, but here we are.

Luckily, the Governor's proposal is not what we will be adopting. We have an opportunity for Democrats and Republicans to work together on crafting a bipartisan budget. A budget that helps rebuild our infrastructure. A budget that strengthens law enforcement, that strengthens our schools, that invests in school security and education and takes the proper steps to ensure that our state is on a sound financial and fiscal setting going into the future.

I speak for my Senate Republican colleagues when I say there is a willingness to work together. However, the early stages of this budget process seems reminiscent of just a few months ago in this chamber—little communication; little opportunity for alternative proposals; a lack of transparency when it comes to amendments and the ability to discuss them. Mr. President, this budget process cannot move forward in the same secretive way we've seen other significant proposals move out of this body earlier this year. It needs to be transparent; it needs to be deliberative; it needs to be bipartisan.

I believe—in fact, I know—that this can be done, that we can do this together. But more importantly, I believe we need to produce a budget that is sound, that protects our values, makes sure that we have long-term tax relief for all taxpayers, rebuilds our roads and bridges, pays down debt, and actually helps students learn to become prepared for good careers and raise good families here in the state of Michigan.
